What does Black breast cancer look like?

Knowledge is power: The Black breast cancer experience explores the disparities in breast cancer care. In addition to discussions about disparities in care, the program covers topics including understanding your treatment path, the cost of cancer and navigating relationships.

In this resource guide, we've pulled together highlights from each session and additional resources to help you live well, beyond your diagnosis.

Statistics sourced from: Susan G. Komen and American Cancer Society

Black women are 41% more likely to die from breast cancer than white women, despite lower incidence of disease. (ACS, 2022)

Black women are just as likely to have hereditary breast cancer as white women, yet their participation in genetic counseling and testing is substantially lower. (TOUCH, 2022)

Black women tend to be diagnosed at a younger age than white women.

Black women have a higher rate of receiving a triple-negative diagnosis which is a more aggressive breast cancer subtype.

We have to do better.

SESSION I

Understanding your treatment path

You've been diagnosed with breast cancer, now what? This session will help you navigate the early days of a breast cancer diagnosis. You will hear from a medical expert on the standard of care, treatment plans for various subtypes of breast cancer, ways to manage side effects, and the basics of clinical trials. You will also hear from a panel of black women, sharing their experiences with breast cancer.

Evelyn Taiwo, MD

Assistant professor of medicine at Weill Cornell Medicine; Attending physician at New York Presbyterian-Brooklyn Methodist Hospital

Novella Brown

Diagnosed with early-stage breast cancer in 2021

Atiba Page

Diagnosed with metastatic breast cancer in 2019

KEY TAKEAWAYS

- There is treatment for all stages of breast cancer
- Discuss genetic testing and enrollment in clinical trials with your healthcare team
- Do not be afraid to ask questions

ADDITIONAL RESOURCES

What you need to know about breast cancer, with "3 Black Docs"

Who knew it was nothing new: Racial disparities in healthcare

Addressing disparities in breast cancer care, with Tisha M. Felder, PhD, MSW

SESSION II

The cost of cancer: Work, financial, and insurance matters

Joanna L. Fawzy Morales, Esq

CEO of Triage Cancer

Juris Doctor from Loyola Law School Los Angeles

Kiana Wooten

Diagnosed with invasive ductal carcinoma in 2019

Treatment for breast cancer affects all aspects of life. Research has shown that the total cost of treatment can range from $100,000 to $300,000. This session will help you navigate the financial burden of cancer treatment, including out of pocket healthcare costs, insurance, disability, and your rights in the workplace.

KEY TAKEAWAYS

- Understand all of your health insurance options so that you can pick the best plan for you, with the lowest out-of-pocket costs
- Understand how to use your insurance effectively, including appealing any denials of coverage
- Understand your employment rights and your options for taking time off work, including disability insurance options

ABOUT LBBC

Living Beyond Breast Cancer is a national nonprofit organization that seeks to create a world that understands there is more than one way to have breast cancer. To fulfill our mission of providing trusted information and a community of support, we offer on-demand emotional, practical, and evidence-based content that is meaningful to those newly diagnosed, in treatment, post-treatment, and living with metastatic disease.

For over 30 years, Living Beyond Breast Cancer has imparted wisdom and connection via conferences, events, a peer-to-peer helpline, and more. Today, we remain committed to creating a culture of acceptance—where sharing the diversity of the lived experience of breast cancer fosters self-advocacy and hope.
