WHEN I WAS INITIALLY DIAGNOSED,
I really didn't have support.
Now, I'm like, wow, look at all these people that are like me.

—Amanda, diagnosed at age 27, diagnosed with metastatic
breast cancer at age 30

“When we got to the conference and as soon as we sat down, everything just changed. The energy was different. I felt so empowered. I now say, there is going to be life after stage IV.”

Living Beyond Breast Cancer’s Annual Conference on Metastatic Breast Cancer connects those living with metastatic breast cancer and provides informative sessions led by medical experts, wellness professionals, and people in the metastatic community.

In 2023, Living Beyond Breast Cancer awarded 118 travel grants totaling $56,200 to help limit the financial burden of attending an in-person conference.
