

Real help from people
who understand.

"It was incredibly helpful to talk to other people who were going through the same thing or who had been there."

—Angel, LBBC community member

Connection

can help people feel less alone.

More than 10,000 people connect through LBBC's virtual communities, where they can exchange information, practical tips, and support with people who get it.

After her diagnosis, Angel found strength in talking with people who had been through similar experiences. Those conversations gave her a place to share what she was going through and feel understood.

Your donation helps make these conversations and connections possible.

Trusted information

can help people take a more active role in their care.

Living Beyond Breast Cancer provides expert-led education and real-life
perspectives to help people understand their options
and feel more prepared for conversations and decisions about their care.

At LBBC's Conference on Metastatic Breast Cancer, attendees learn from medical experts and people living with MBC about treatment, side effects, and navigating care.

LBBC's on-demand
educational content
received more than 10,000 views in 2025.

For one returning attendee, that information led to better conversations with her oncologist about treatment.

Your support makes this possible.

Real help

when the costs of breast cancer add up.

*"By paying one month of my mortgage,
I am able to clear some of the medical costs, worry less, and focus on getting well."*

Less financial worry

More room to focus on health.

The LBBC Fund
provides one-time
grants to help people
in treatment cover
basic expenses so they can focus more fully on their health.

During breast cancer treatment, copays and other medical expenses can quickly strain a household budget. Paying for care may become even harder when someone is living on a limited income or unable to work.

In 2025, LBBC
provided $375,000
in grants to nearly 350 people.

For one recipient, help with a mortgage payment meant she could pay medical costs without putting her copays on a credit card.

Your support helps create a breathing room when people need it most.
